CONVOCATION 2024 HONORARY DIPLOMA RECIPIENT

---

Michael Harris

Founding Director, Kingston Employment & Youth Services

What does this award mean to you personally?

I am touched that the nomination came from a long-time work colleague. I worked with Gillian Watters (a St. Lawrence graduate) for over 37 years. She came to KEYS as a placement student and is now Director of Employment Services.

Also, my son will graduate from St. Lawrence this spring and getting this recognition alongside him is meaningful. I have much respect for the work of the College. In my 41 years as Executive Director at KEYS we have had placement students from the College each year. I have firsthand knowledge of the quality of those graduating.

How have SLC students or the college in general intersected with your work or community?

As noted above, in my 41 years at KEYS we have always supported students with work placements and looked to hire many after graduation. The quality of the students that have come our way has always impressed me. In fact, two of the six members of the current KEYS Leadership Team came to KEYS as placement students. What path have you followed, that sees you here today? What were some ingredients of your success?

In my 46 years working in the community-based sector I have often noted that my path is that of service. I would describe my leadership style as "Servant Leadership." Service is at the core of KEYS activities, and it is at the core of my leadership philosophy. I view leadership as the development of a serving relationship with others that inspires their growth and development and inspires collective action towards a defined mission.

Who has been your biggest inspiration, and why?

My father was an early inspiration in the way that matters pertaining to equity and inclusion and was at the forefront of how he viewed the world and lived his life.

In my 30s Ram Dass became an inspiration. I first encountered the voice of Ram Dass in 1987, via his book How Can I Help. Ram Dass (1931–2019) first went to India in 1967. At that time, he was still Dr. Richard Alpert, an already eminent Harvard psychologist. In this book, he provides support and inspiration for us in our efforts as members of the helping professions, as volunteers, as community activists, or simply as friends and family trying to meet each other's needs. It was also through the teaching of Ram Dass that I grew to know India and its many great spiritual teachers. I have journeyed to India on eight different occasions, and to various other parts of the world. These journeys have shaped my life.

This quote from Anthony Bourdain resonates with me: "Travel isn't always pretty. It isn't always comfortable. Sometimes it hurts, it even breaks your heart. But that's okay. The journey changes you; it should change you. It leaves marks on your memory, on your consciousness, on your heart, and on your body. You take something with you. Hopefully, you leave something good behind." Maybe travel has been my greatest teacher.

What words of inspiration/wisdom can you share with SLC graduates?

My work life and travel experiences have taught me much about who I am. My message to SLC graduates is not to ignore the exploration of who you are. Look for opportunities for self-exploration. You owe it to the world to be the best version of yourself. Through the identification and mobilization of your gifts you can change the world. The Tao Te Ching states that "knowing others is wisdom; knowing the self is enlightenment." Understanding one's innate gifts and talents allows you to begin to develop them.

Lindsey Belch

CEO, Girls Inc., Kingston

What does this award mean to you personally?

St. Lawrence College is my alma mater, and my work at Girls Inc. has been intertwined with the College for more than 30 years now. It is such an honour to have been even nominated for this very special award. Being considered and selected by the Board of Governors for my work in our community is truly a highlight of my career.

How have SLC students or the College in general intersected with your work or community?

I have been the CEO of Girls Inc. Limestone since 1992. We provide programs and support for more than 1,500 girls, women and gender-expansive individuals every year to overcome adversity, be safe in this world, and prepare for financial self-sufficiency.

St. Lawrence College has been an instrumental partner in our work and growth. We are proud of the fact that most of our 15 staff members are St. Lawrence grads. This has been the case since we were founded in 1972 and will continue long into the future.

We have also been fortunate to have placement students work by our side to provide direct support to our program participants. We regularly have Social Service Worker and Child and Youth Care students on board and welcome interns from any program relevant to our work. We greatly appreciate this hands-on support and always give first consideration to our past and current students for paid positions.

Over the years, we have participated in many speaking opportunities at the Kingston campus. Through our partnerships and connections three College staff members have joined on our Board of Directors who are dedicated to driving our mission forward in the community.

We have also gravitated to the College's exceptional event spaces, where we hosted our Annual Art Auction from 2006 to 2009. We now host our annual Girls Summit in the Event Centre for 150 girls and gender-expansive young people.

What path have you followed that sees you here today? What were some ingredients of your success?

During my studies at St. Lawrence College, I engaged in the college community, joining the student newspaper team as Entertainment Editor of "The Nomad." I had no idea at that time that this joining and belonging would become a key part of my education and personal and work life that followed. This was the start of my understanding that a critical ingredient to success is to develop meaningful, authentic relationships - personally and professionally. To pay attention and focus more on others and less on myself. To always look for the bright side in every situation. To listen carefully to understand the needs of others and never assume I know. And to do what I can do to help.

I graduated with a School of Business diploma in Advertising and Public Relations in 1982. The timing was terrible as we were at the height of one of the two most serious recessions in Canadian history. This became an unexpected fork in my path, resulting in me taking positions unrelated to my field for some time to make a living.

It was also immediately following my graduation that I contacted Big Sisters in Kingston and signed up. I became a Big Sister to an amazing girl, and for almost six years, we kept each other company, learning and growing together.

A few years into my time as a Big Sister, I was asked to join the Board of Directors. I again belonged to something larger than myself and learned how to make good decisions while keeping the most important factors in mind - the impact on those we work for.

Although not part of my original plan, this time was formative because I learned to work hard. To not give up or in, and to always strive to make ends meet in difficult times. By adding this experience to my public relations and business abilities gained in college, I was fully prepared and ready for the most important role in my career I would take on in 1992 - the Executive Director of Big Sisters of Kingston - now Girls Inc. of Limestone, Algonquin and Lakeshore.

Another critical part of my journey was recognizing and pursuing learning opportunities when I needed more information or education to excel in my role and lead our team. Over the years, I have participated in formal and informal educational opportunities in executive leadership, governance and administration, adult education and empowerment, graphic design, diversity, equity and inclusion, and others. I have also hired and guided many seasoned social workers and new graduates. I support our team and ensure they take care of themselves while they take care of others and encourage them to discover their strengths, learn new skills and take on new tasks. In my personal life, I have used my life-long love of music to achieve balance in my work and personal life, writing songs and playing guitar and keys in performing bands. My bandmates and I have worked for years on numerous festival boards to provide gig opportunities for women in our community.

Finally, one of the most important factors to the success of my work and, in turn, our agency is that I have been all in. Engaged, hard-working, and grateful. I have been ready and willing to take on whatever tasks are needed to achieve our goal of eradicating inequity to improve the experiences and opportunities for girls, women and gender-expansive people and change the world.

Who has been your biggest inspiration, and why?

I am inspired by those around me every day and always have been. It is what keeps me going and always striving to improve. I was very fortunate to have amazing familial support in all ways during my formative years and beyond. Their support gave me the strength and inspiration to choose a path at the age of 17 and confidently follow the unexpectedly winding road I travelled on as it unfolded.

The exceptionally high quality and life-changing support provided to our participants by Girls Inc. staff members is a significant source of inspiration for me. Every staff member provides nurturing, creative, and often emotionally difficult support to more than 1,500 individuals every year. Our staff's service excellence and participants' successful outcomes highly motivate me to raise the funds we need to decrease our waiting lists and serve more girls, women and gender-expansive individuals who need our help. But our participants themselves have been the most significant source of my inspiration for more than 30 years. Despite many having seemingly insurmountable, intersectional barriers, they desire a better life for themselves and, often, for their children. They work very hard to overcome the significant inequities that hinder them from finishing high school or attending post-secondary, trade school, or other career paths. Many are unhoused or have insecure or unsafe housing. A very high percentage have been victims of gender-based violence. Many have mental health concerns or disabilities. Obstacles are heightened even further for our BIPOC, 2SLGBTQIA+, or racially diverse participants.

CEO, Girls Inc., Kingston

Yet, in almost every case, when provided support that meets their individual needs, they set and meet goals to achieve self-sufficiency. As I read the notes of appreciation we often receive, I am inspired by their tenacity and hard work. I am proud of our team, and I am grateful for the winding path that has led me here.

What words of inspiration/wisdom can you share with SLC graduates?

Every one of us has our own winding path to follow. Having made that first step in choosing your field and working hard at your studies, you've finally arrived here - a graduate of St. Lawrence College. CONGRATULATIONS! Savour this moment and celebrate with your classmates, family and friends. You are amazing.

Then, take a deep breath and forge ahead. You will benefit from developing a 3 to 5-year plan and then taking it one step at a time. Celebrate every success and reassess and fine-tune your plan at every fork in the road.

Always seek opportunities for life-long learning to help you deepen your understanding of your work and gain new information and skills. And along the way, look for new places to belong. Your life will be richer for it, and you will be surprised how many personal and professional opportunities will be provided when you support the people around you and those in your community.

Be safe, be strong, be kind, be grateful and be sure to balance work with the things you love to do. And finally, always remember that you are amazing just the way you are, and walk your path - wherever it may lead - with confidence.
