CONVOCATION 2025 HONORARY DIPLOMA RECIPIENT

Kenny Arruda, Cornwall

What does this award mean to you personally?

This award means a great deal to me because it reflects the years of collaboration between WITRON and St. Lawrence College. I'm deeply grateful for the partnership we've built, grounded in a shared vision for the future of the automation industry, shared goals, and a commitment to developing talent. But more than anything, I see this as a recognition of WITRON as a whole. It represents the hard work, innovation, and dedication of our entire team. Being honored in that context makes this award especially meaningful. It's a reminder that investing in people and technology doesn't just build stronger systems — it builds strong communities too.

How have your interactions with St. Lawrence College influenced your path and the work that led to this award?

Together, we've created opportunities that didn't exist a few years ago. From hands-on training to direct job placements in our WITRON facilities and Laval Quebec headquarters. It's been rewarding to see students grow through the program and step confidently into roles on our team and in the broader industry. Working with SLC has reinforced my belief that collaboration between industry and education isn't just important, it's essential. Their team helped us connect vision with execution, and students with opportunity. It's been inspiring to watch the results: skilled graduates entering the workforce with confidence, and companies like ours thriving thanks to their contributions.

What wisdom would you share with SLC graduates based on your own experiences in your education and career?

Own your path. I started out as a graduate of a technical diploma and worked my way up to where I am today — and I've never stopped learning along the way. Be curious, be consistent, and don't be afraid to fail — failure is often where the real growth begins. The best careers aren't built in straight lines; they're built by people who take initiative, adapt, and genuinely care about doing things right. Whether you're solving technical problems or leading people, your mindset will set you apart. Build strong relationships, stay open to learning, and don't underestimate the impact you can have — in your workplace, your community, or your industry. And when you get ahead, make sure you bring others with you.
